Prices Jump

WASHINGTON (WP)
The U.S. cost of living rose last month by another 0.8 per cent, the most in any month since the Korean war buildup in 1951, the labor department reported Wednesday.

Two-thirds of the increase came at the supermarket checkout counter, where prices rose 2.4 per cent for the month. That rise was the largest since the department started keeping separate track of them in 1952. But food, which had been stable for four preceding months, also headed up sharply.

Heating and other utility bills rose 1.1 per cent, and rents, 0.5 per cent.

In a separate report, the department said that price increases last month out-stripped hourly wage ineases, with the result that the purchasing power of the average working man's hourly earnings fell. Legislation introduced today by the NDP government will give a proposed B.C. Energy Commission power to regulate prices of all petroleum and natural gas products at the wholesale and retail

Attorney - General Alex Macdonald brought in three pieces of legislation, including a bill to create the B.C. Energy Commission, which will replace the existing Public Utilities Commission.

The commission will have up to seven members, he said, and will have "over-all responsibility for the management and use of energy resources in

Macdonald said the commission will have the power to roll back gasoline prices and prices of other motor fuels if it sees fit.

It will also be empowered to conduct a complete survey of the energy potential and requirements of the province at the request of the cabinet.

The government's Crown corporation, B.C. Hydro, will be under the jurisdiction of the Energy Commission. Complaints regarding Hydro service and rates may be appealed by consumers to the commission for the first time, Macdonald said.

The attorney-general also said the government may see the Energy Commission which would enable it to control export of petroleum and natural gas products out of the province. This could possibly be done through blocking production at the wellhead, he Hearings regarding natural gas exports are scheduled for later this year. We might consider amendments to this legislation to allow entry into the actual field of exports to the very power." Macdonald said.

He said the legisla-tion concerning price restric-tions on petroleum products is a revival of legislation which has existed previously in B.C. The Coal and Petroleum Production Control Act passed originally in 1937 gave the province power to regulate priors the said, and its constitutional validity was upheld in a subsequent Supreme Court

BELUGA WHALE KILLING BANNED

OTTAWA (CP) - The federal government has banned he killing of Beluga whales for sport, Environment Minister

In a joint news release with Northern Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, Davis said the decision to ban the issuance of sport licences was made out of concern for the "so-called "sports' aspect of this activity" and because of the hunting

Licences for sport hunting of beluga were first issued in 1965, and the highest catch was in 1968. No whales have been taken since 1969.

Belugas are white-skinned members of the dolphin family, averaging about 12 feet in length and weighing about 1,000 pounds. They are found mainly in Hudson Bay and the Gulf

The ban on licences does not affect native people in the North, who still will be allowed to take the animals for food.

The legislation gives the government power to equalize gasoline prices across the province. Macdonald said the government is eager to eli-minate regional disparity in gas prices and will "try to move into the field of equal gas prices.'

On the subject of natural gas exports, Macdonald said natural gas is being sold cheaply to the United States. Natural gas is a very impor-tant commodity to B.C., he

In some cases the gas is being sold at an estimated 30 cents per 1,000 cubic feet below comparable market value in other areas.

"If the National Energy Board lets us down, which I don't think they would," Mac-donald said, the government would then have to consider taking its own steps to control

His remarks amplified those made in the legislature Wednesday by Premier Bar-rett, who said the government is not opposed in principle to further exports of natural gas. This would only be allowed, Barrett said, on the conditions that B.C. natural gas was sold at a "much more realistic" price and that the longterm energy requirements of Public hearings, in connection with the companies' applications will be held in the nterests of "natural justice," Macdonald said.

Appeal of the decisions of the Energy Commission will not be based on the merits of the case, he said, but will conern the guarantee of a fair hearing being given to applicants or errors in law.

Other steps being taken by the legislation introduced today will move administra-tion of cemeteries to the tion of cemeteries to the health department. Water utilities will now be handled by the resources department and jurisdiction over motor carri-ers will go to the commercial transport department, Macdonald said.

Management of pre-arranged funerals will be handled the B.C. Securities Commission, "where it should have been in the first place,'

Macdonald said the area of price restrictions on petroleum and natural gas products will require special study by the commission. "It doesn't mean that tomorrow there will be an order restricting prices," he said.

The attorney-general was asked if establishment of the Energy Commission will bring closer to reality the proposal to build a natural gas pipeline to Vancouver Island. ## Watch Peace, Not War

A reasonable impression to be gathered from the present Vietnam situation is that the North and South government are waiting only for the last of the American prisoners, and the last of the American troops, to arrive home, so that the Vietnamese can proceed with a full-scale domestic war as it began 10 years ago.

The intransigent South Vietnamese attitude, the large number of heavily equipped forces available to Premier Thieu, on the one hand, and 'the reported steady movement of Northern troops and equipment toward the south, on the other, can lead to no otherconclusion.

Against this background, External Affairs Minister Sharp's insistence on keeping his options open in regard to Canada's continued service on the International Commission for Control and Supervision, is merely good sense. It would be embarrassing to the United States if Canada left prematurely and perhaps precipitated a breakdown of the truce arrangements, since this could lead to a halt in the prisoner exchange and a corresponding halt in the U.S. forces repatriation.

But once the last prisoner and the last serviceman are safely on this side of the Pacific, the Canadian contingent should keep its bags packed for immediate return. It will be a sad and sorry action to take, but it would be folly to permit Canada to become embroiled in, or victimized by, a resumption of fighting in Vietnam. As Mr. Sharp has told Parliament: we went over to observe the peace, not to watch a war.

There has been criticism of Canada's off-again-on-again role in the Vietnam truce. Mr. Sharp's conditions - full access for the truce commission to view and report on violations of the agreement, and a permanent international body to which commission reports could be made - have not been met. But there has been enough of a gesture toward them, and a sufficient screen of tentative starts and promises, to justify Canada's initial participation.

Mr. Sharp understandably cannot be definite in his plans at this point. But the outlook for the truce commission cannot be described as hopeful. And the last thing Canada should do is get entangled in the same sort of dreary ineffectual trap that the former International Control Commission turned out to be.

The sixty-day trial period will be up on March 31, and by that time the prisoners and the troops should all be away. The Canadian cabinet's decision on what to do will reportedly be announced a day or two before then. Presumably it will be along the lines of Mr. Sharp's earlier policy: to stay if a job can be done; to get out if this is manifestly impossible.

Canada's world role as a peace keeping power - in the Suez, Cyprus and other trouble spots made it almost impossible to remain aloof when an invitation to the latest Vietnam chore was issued. And by all accounts the Canadian conduct during the past few weeks in Vietnam has earned the respect of other countries. Little would have been done in getting the ICCS into any sort of action if the Canadians had not taken the initiative.

But if neither their colleagues of the commission nor the warring halves of Vietnam want effective, functioning truce supervision there will be no point in staying. The government should not let itself be argued out of that attitude, by critics at home or abroad.

Energy Policy

May I, through your columns, extend congratulations to Mr. David Cass-Beggs, the new chairman of B.C. Hydro, for his statements on nuclear power for British Columbia? And to the government for having appointed him to his present post.

While believing that British Columbia will eventually need nuclear power, Mr. Cass-Beggs has outlined the following

1- We should take "a few years" to think about it and to see what developments occur during that time. - Meanwhile, we should use our hydro resources. 3 - Then we should take "four or five years" to design a plant, followed by 4- "four or five years" to construct This makes great sense and is exactly in line with what the very able consultants to the B.C. Energy Board recommended a year ago. At that time they said in their report to the board: British Columbia should first develop its economically attractive resources of hydro and conventional thermal power, and postpone its entry into the nuclear field while taking advantage of further advances in technology. Mr Cass-Beggs also said that when and if a nuclear plant is built it should not be on Vancouver Island where it 'would be uneconomical with present technology". This is also in accord with the recommendations of the Energy Board's consultants who said that such a plant on the Island would be expensive and would "divide the provincial power system into two separate systems" It is most gratifying to learn that energy-planning in British Columbia is back on the track and that it is in such competent and responsible hands. Hugh L. Keenleyside, 3470 Mayfair Drive.

I want to extend my wholehearted support to the proposed Land Commission Act. The hue and cry about "freedom of the individual" seems to me to have meant the freedom of moneyed individuals to make more money by irrevocably maining the natural land.

Disability Rights

Re: The recent article in your newspaper of March 13 regarding the Minster of Labor, William King, setting up a three-man board of review to study and make recommendations on appeals by injured workers under the Workmen's Compensation Board of B.C. The last paragraph of the item states 'Its decision will be final, subject to approval of the Board (WCB).

Our society, known as the Society for the Protection of Disability Rights in B.C., was formed last year to fight, for the first time, as an organized voice for a fair deal from the WCB for injured workmen and dependants, assisting people with a language problem, educational or plain inexperience handicap, who have been, or have reason to believe they have been, unjustly treated by the WCB of B.C.

In January of this year our society presented a 14-point petition to the minister of labor with copies to the opposition, all parties. The brief (copies available) requests sweeping changes to the act and the board itself. Among some of the points are that appeals be handled as in a court of law, by judge and jury or by three-men arbitration as laid out in the Arbitration Act of B.C.

For far too long injured workers have been treated as straight statistics by the "Act" and not the slightest trace of any." humane consideration, proof of which is now in our files, for paraplegic workmen, workers without limbs, lost hearing, eyes, lung damage, spinal injuries, having to fight tooth and nail for a reasonable pension to exist on; others being told to go on welfare or draw on UIC or Canada Disability Pension. Why?

Regarding this new appeal group, we are willing to give anything a reasonable trial period, but early indications ("its decisions will be final subject to approval of the board") indicate the same old ball game with three new players. Few people know that the W.C. Act states that "The final decision of the Board cannot be changed by any court in Canada.' This new appeal group, consisting of two persons from a university and a lawyer, are no doubt learned people, but what about the worker? Why is he not represented on this tribunal? Where are the labor unions? It is the worker's very life that is being judged.

This society is a non-profit organization, all volunteer non-paid executive made up of injured workers or representatives, and membership is open to any person in this category in British Columbia, Various committees are studying dozens of files pouring in from all over B.C. at an alarming rate. -James R. McKenzie, President, Society for the Protection of Disability Rights of B.C., P.O. Box 1765.

The English song birds which are due to arrive today or tomorrow for the Natural History Society have had the greatest care given to them on the Montcalm, the CPR steamer in which they crossed the Atlantic. They were in charge of capable men, one of them being an expert whistler, travelling with the birds to keep them in song. They have now crossed the continent. The collection will be composed as follows: 17 to 18 dozen larks, 10 to 12 dozen linnets, six dozen goldfinches, 100 robins and two dozen blue tits.

cil meeting at which a vote was carried five to one to seek authority to proceed with a new recreation centre in the municipality, but his dissent is soundly based. It is customary to submit money bylaws to the

Much of the support for independent action by the council has come from organized groups with special interests in acquiring the sports facilities — a healthful enough show of public interest. But, given the approval of the voters, the council could free itself of possible future trouble and the discontent which might emerge should the recreation centre require more public funds than Alderman John Goult was the property owners since the burden present estimates indicate both for construction and for operation.

Oak Bay's Council seems firmly convinced of the desirability of the ice-rink swim-pool complex and has virtual assurance of federal and provincial aid equivalent to a little more than half the total $1.6 million cost estimates. It wants to get on with the job after many months of controversy, and understandably turns to what appears to be the most efficient means of accomplishing its objective. In this case, however, apparent efficiency might prove to be the reverse. If a majority of the public wants the proposed facility and agrees to the price, the voters can give the couns cil the safeguards it needs.

Disclosure of News Sources

WASHINGTON - At some point, Oliver Wendell Holmes or some other philosophic after-dinner speaker must have said that there was more to life than the law, and this may be what the courts have overlooked by trying to compel newsmen to disclose the sources of their information and turn over their notes to the legal authorities?

In its 5-to-4 decisjon in the Caldwell se, the majority of the Supreme Court said: "These courts have . . . concluded that the First Amendment interest asserted by the newsman was outweighed by the general obligation of a citizen to appear before a grand jury or at trial, pursuant to a subpoena, and give what information he possesses ... We are asked . . . to grant newsmen a testimonial privilege that other citizens do not enjoy. This we decline to do.

So this is now the law, but it leaves out of account some of the practical problems of life. The Supreme Court majority opinion seems to rest on two assumptions: first, that newsmen keep notes that make sense to anybody but themselves, and second, that reporters would rather disclose their sources than

Doodles as Evidence?

Have you ever seen a reporter's notes? Would any serious judge really accept most of them in evidence? They are a jumble of phrases, home-made shorthand, disconnected words, names, wisecracks by press-table companions, lunch dates, doodles, descriptions of somebody's necktie or expression, and large and apparently significant numbers, probably reminding the reporter of nothing more than his next dead-

This is not quite as casual or irresponsible as it sounds. By his notes, the reporter is sending signals to himself. For a few hours, he knows what the squiggles on his paper mean. By putting them there, he puts them in his mind. Ask him a week later what they mean, and he'd probably be totally lost.

There are exceptions, of course. The British correspondents in Washington, unlike their American colleagues, were trained in shorthand. Their notes of an interview could undoubtedly be translated into an accurate account of what happened, worthy of evidence in a court of wisdom of Holmes or Brandeis, or the experience of Chief Justice Burger, who grew up with one of the most remarkable generations of American journalists in Minnesota - Hedley Donovan, the editor of Time, Eric Sevareid of CBS, Phil Potter of The Baltimore Sun, Dick Wilson of the Cowles papers, and many others - could possibly figure out the mysteries of reporters' notes, even with the help of all the cryptographers in the

On the question of going to jail rather than disclosing the sources of information, the chances are that the journalists' tradition of keeping promises, of being faithful to the people who have faith in them, will probably prevail long after the present administration and the present controversy over the First Amendment have passed.

The democratic tradition hasn't gone on for over 200 years in this country for nothing. There are still a lot of people in government here who will insist on telling the truth, even if they are hounded out of Washington for doing so, and most reporters will go to jail rather than squeal on them because they were faithful to the larger interests of the nation

Besides, jail for serious reporters, trying to investigate the corruption of power, in either party, is not the worst thing that can happen to them. There is so much corruption, and they chase it under such unequal circumstances, even to the point of physical exhaustion, that many of them would almost welcome a little relief from the tyranny of the deadline to think and read even in the pokey.

Anxiety and Fear

Besides, the White House and the courts, in this controversy with the press and the television and radio networks over the last couple of years, have made their point and won most of the battles. They have created an atmosphere of anxiety, if not fear, among the Washington civil servants, who are 'the real source of information in this city.

The Nixon administration lost the Pentagon papers case in the Supreme Court and the Watergate bugging case in the Federal District Court, but it won the Caldwell case, and the word has gone out to the civil servants and the press to be very careful about talking too much or exposing too much. And this is probably the signal the administration wanted to get over in the first place.

But American life and tradition are still too strong to be overwhelmed by intimidation of the civil servants or orders by the Supreme Court to hand over all the information reporters possess about their sources and in their notes. The reporters won't break their promises to their sources, even if they have to go to jail, and most of them won't turn over their notes, though it would be a puzzle to the judges and the juries if they actu-

Further evidence of extensive mental illness, the report saw in widespread dissatisternity wards. They were werried or uncertain how to cope with their newborn babies when they returned home. And a high incidence (unquantified) of difficulties in bringing up teenagers was taken as yet another sign.

Running through the report, there is a thread of disappointment, perhaps anguish, that the Swedes have not reacted as had been confidently predicted. As conditions improved, so should human happiness and human behavior; that, as the report indicates, is the basic premise of the welfare state. It has not been so: in other words, the perfectability of man, that proposition of the enlightenment on which most utopian systems are based, does not seem to hold, at least in the case of Sweden.

The report has no glib cures to propose for the endemic mental illness it uncovers, but man's life is when he realizes his chil-dren have suddenly grown up. There have been so few moments together! It is one of life's incongruities that the children into the world is when they have the least time to devote to their rearing. Most young men are establishing their careers, raising their qualifications the very activities which keep them away from their homes and their families.

That is a time when families find it hard to make ends meet, and women leave the cradle to supplement the fam-ily's income. In an agricultural society, this escalation of activity did not take place when children arrived to add to the burdens of young parents. Work was home-oriented and the entire family cooperated in running the farm. It is our industrial society which has weakened the ties of family and home.

We have tried to use the school as a supportive institution and have failed.

School has increased children's isolation and even the "bootstrap" programs designed to help culturally deprived children have failed to leap that barrier. The school inculcates new values in the child but leaves the family unit unaffected. It becomes, in a child's eyes, a judgment on his parents.

All our attempts to improve the quality of life and to solve the problem of unemployment through shorter work and early retirements have failed to strengthen the family.

In a world of zero population growth, the child, healthy in mind and body, will be a scarce item in our expeBy WALTER PITMAN rience. Like everything else that scarcity will bring increased value.

In every community we find a plethora of organizations dedicated to picking up the pieces left over-from the wreckage of families. We provide pre-marriage counselling but little concern once the marriage has been solemnized. 37 × × × -

There can be no substitute for the support of a family. In the future, child-rearing will be telescoped into a few years for the normal one- or twochild family. Is there no way we can organize our society to provide the maxmum time for family development? Nursery and day care centres should be seen as enrichment opportunities, rather than babysitting operations for working parents. A family life sabbati-cal could allow young families to spend time and energy living and learning, understanding themselves and each other, exploring and strengthening relationships. These activities take time, and that is the one element which is missing for most young people when the focus should be on their offspring rather than on survival and career. There are few supports for strong family relationships, and many disrup-tive elements. Early childhood education experts should be working with families in their homes, rather than with children in isolation. How strange that we call on experts to assist us with everything but the improvement of our family life!

The nuclear family of parents and children fails to provide a sense of roots, a concept of identity to those who are cut off from grandparents and other relatives in the family. Can we not arrange to time-table leisure periods in such a way that wider families might more easily have time together?

I can think of no better strategy for dealing with crime, violence, mental breakdown, suicide — in short, for most of the ills which beset our society than a major effort to improve the quality of the family unit. All other institu-tions have within them the seeds of their own irrelevance and ultimate deinstitution for social immprovement. * * * -

If we are to have a percentage of our population for whom there is to be no work, then it is a matter of either having a growing number of citizens continuously unemployed or sharing the needed work in the most sensible pattern possible. This sharing should in-clude any women for whom being employed is satisfying.

This is not a call for a new paradise, merely a plea for considering the needs of the family in that mix of val-ues which will decide our life-style.

Leisure can be the burden of the very young and the very old and the symbol of failure for those between. Or leisure can be put in the service of those functions we treasure most, our roles as intelligent, warm human beings, as responsive concerned citizens and as fathers and mothers.

BEFORE THE JUDGE

A 19-year-old man with "good characteristics" was fined $400 in provincial court Wednesday and placed on pro-bation for 18 months for breaking, entering and theft.

Mark S. Dimitry, 4-1010 Bal-moral, pleaded guilty to breaking into Grants Food and Meat Market, 1022 Cook, and stealing $17.90 in coins Feb. 25.

Evidence was that another man got inside the market through an unlocked window and opened the back door to let in Dimitry.

Referring to Dimitry's pre-sentence report, Prosecutor John Macintyre said. "The accused concedes that what he did was stupid. It wasn't stupid, it was an extremely serious offence . . . a jail sen-tence is a more appropriate

Watergate Sparks Party Bolt

WASHINGTON (WP) Rep. Pete McCloskey has severed his voting registration ties with the Republican party, which he says is tolerating "corruption" in the Watergate bugging case.

"I don't want to stay in the Republican party if the party is going to countenance the coverup of Watergate," McCloskey said. "It's corruption in the executive branch by a deliberate coverup of facts that Congress and the people should know about."

The California congressman

The California congressman said that Attorney-General Richard Kleindienst's instructions to acting FBI director L.

Patrick Gray not to discuss the Watergate investigations was "an astounding extension of executive privilege."

"The charges in this case are purely political and criminal and have nothing to do with the operations of government in any way," McCloskey

McCloskey, a maverick Republican who briafly challenged President Nixon for the GOP presidential nomination last year, said he reregistered recently at the suggestion of Monroe Sweetland, a National Educational Association lobbyist and per-deputy registrar, was having dinner in Washington with McCloskey and his estranged wife, Caroline, who re-registered as a Democrat.

Instead of becoming a Democrat, McCloskey re-registered as "decline to state," a category used in California by voters who do not wish a partisan affiliation.

"My thinking was that I didn't want to say falsely that I'll be a Republican for two years when I'm not sure," McCloskey said.

For the time being, he added, he still considered himself as a member of the Republican party.

Secretary of State Edmund G. Brown Jr., the state's chief election officer, said it didn't matters what McCloskey considered nimself because "in the eyes of the California election laws he is officially a member of neither party."

Officials in Brown's office said the laws gave McCloskey nine months to decide

He said he was prhibited from running as a Democrate because of a provision barring a candidate from running for partisan office if he was a member of an election.

Rep. The vast majority of piston engine car manufacturers warrant their engines for 12 months or 12,000 miles. Mazda warrants its Rotary engine for twice as long—24 months or 24,000 milest. We offer a better warranty because we know we have a better engine. We spent 6 years testing and probing before the first Mazda Rotary rolled off the line in 1967. Today 400,000 people in 52 countries drive Rotary Powered Mazdas. The Mazda Rotary is quicker, smoother, lighter, quieter, and more efficient than a piston engine of equal size. It has only three major moving parts, yet it develops about twice as much horsepower per pound as a comparable piston engine. And now there's an automatic transmission available for all five Mazda Rotary cars. Test one at your Mazda dealer and find out why 21 major manufacturers are trying to build rotary engines of their own.

Stiffer Rules for Water Protection

and the control of th especially with regard to water supplies is the intent of amendments to the Health Act introduced in the legislature Wednesday by Health Minister Dennis Cocke.

Chief feature of the bill is the stipulation that anyone responsible for a toxic spfil, or the discharge of any harmful contaminant in water land or air must notify "forthwith" the local health board in writing.

The information must give the time, location and duration of the spill, as well as stat-ing the substance and quantity involved. The person or persons concerned is required to take "immediate action to prevent and cease the discharge."

Another provision states that where the can't be found, the health officer may order a clean-up operation. The health officer or local health board may later recover the cost from the owner by filing a certificate with the clerk of the municipality concerned or with the provincial finance department, so that the item is added to the person's pro-any alteration or improvement to a water system if he considers the supply does not meet public health requirements or is a "hazard or potential hazard" to health.

Cocke told reporters such provisions are essential because in recent months several water supply systems in B.C. have been "threatened by pollution." He also said people have been fan too reluctant to report spills promptly.

The amendments would raise the cash penalty for contraventions of the act from the present $100 to $500, with the alternative or additional penalty of six months' imprisonment. Every day the offence continues constitutes a separate offence.

Hammering Continues on Bill 42

For another six and a half hours, through afternoon and night sittings of the legislature Wednesday, the opposition parties continued to lambaste the NDP government's haste the NDP government's six and a half Municipalities because the UBCM is "loaded with real estate types only interested in their own interests."

He challenged Kelly to baste the NDP government's Land Commission Act.

Accusations flew thick and fast, with the government being branded alternately as 'totalitarian,' and as 'gnomes masquerading as ghouls" for its intention to give the proposed land commission wide powers of land control in B.C. Two NDP backbenchers,

Carl Liden (Delta) and Phyllis Young (Vancouver-Little Mountain) spoke in defence of the legislation. Cabinet minsters, although they heckled frequently, did not join in the debate, which was scheduled to continue today.

Hugh Curtis (PC—Saanichand-the-Islands) said the measures undertaken by Bill 42 are "extreme and smack of the collectivization process of totalitarian government."

OUTRAGE He said the reaction of the people of the province has been one of "surprise, disap-pointment and unrestrained outrage" to the land commis-

The Conservative office has received more than 8,000 pieces of mail on the bill, he said. The people "are angry, and with or without amendments to this bill, it is going to take a long time for them to get over their anger."

Curtis said the bill is "designed to completely emascu-late local and regional gov-ernment." No longer will these bodies have the power to designate farmland as they see fit, he said. For the gov-ernment to have put this power in the hands of a "super group of non-elected mandarins" is a vote of nonconfidence in every mayor, alderman and member of municipal council and regional district in the province.

"It's big brother govern-nent," he said. "1984 has arrived 11 years too early."

The legislation is "sour grapes" and "revenge" on the part of the government, which wants to get back at the people who have carved up some of the province's agricultural land for development, he said.
"In my view as a layman, it is bad law," the Tory said. "It represents the worst kind of state interference and cen-

Curtis advocated a system of a temporary six months reserve on all land in the province. After that period was up, if-local governments had not acted to preserve land, the government could do so itself.

BUY LAND

Curtis urged the govern-ment to adopt a policy whereby a six-month reserve could be put on farmland as it is put on the market. The gov-ernment could then buy the land with its special funds.

He also said public hearings should be set up before land is designated and that the deci sions made by the proposed land commission be made subject to appeal to an elected agency or to the courts.

He attacked Douglas Kelly (NDP—Omineca) for remarks he said were attributed to the northern MLA recently. Curtis said Kelly has said the gov-ernment would not accept advice from the Union of B.C.

follow within three years. "The plan is to salvage the dead timber, destroy the bee-tles and rehabilitate the logged areas, replanting them

He challenged Kelly to name officials of the UBCM who fit that description.

Curtis also said Bill 42 is "overkill" and "a serious error in judgment by a new and inexperienced govern-

PHANTOM FIVE

Garde Gardom (L—Van-couver-Point Grey) termed the land commission the "phantom five" and the "pa-tronage quintet."

He said the commission will be "a law unto themselves," with power to control all property and the lifestyle of peoket of British Columbia."

The commission, its coun terpart in the insurance field and other agencies set up by the NDP government will add up to "one great glob of stul-tifying, inflexible, omnipotent bureaucracy," he said.

Gardom claimed Bill 42 'denies natural justice, erodes the rights of the individual, confiscates without compensation, seizes without appeal and emasculates any right of access to the courts. "This is rigidism, centra-lism and regulationism in the extreme," he added.

CORRUPTION Quoting Lord Acton's-famous words, "Power tends to corrupt and absolute power corrupts absolutely," Gardom said: "This is a classic example of the absolute corruption of power."

He concluded his speech on a theatrical note, saying, as he tore up what appeared to be a copy of the legislation, that was the best use he could Langley) called for the resignation of Agriculture Minister Dave Stupich saying that Stupich and other members of the government have been misleading" the public about Bill 42. He said the analogies being drawn between Bill 42 and parts of the Municipal Act are "the most damaging part of this whole thing."

He urged the government to withdraw the bill, incorporate-all the amendments which have been promised but which have yet to appear, and then bring it back into the house.

"This is the most vicious and devious piece of legisla-tion that has ever been introduced in Canada at least and probably in North America," McClelland said.

KNOCK-OUT

"It delivers a knock-out blow to regional and local governments . . . a knock-out blow to the hopes and dreams of the agricultural community and a knock-out blow to the rights of the individual, he said.

The effect of Bill 42 is that land prices have increased, thereby creating gains for speculators and "hurting the very people they say they want to protect . . . they're hitting the little guy," he said of the government.
"Nothing less can be acceptable than the complete withdrawal of this bill," the Socred said.

Roads Approved On Indian Land

DUNCAN — Five years of negotiations between the Cowichan Indian band council and Duncan culminated at a spe-cial meeting Wednesday of city council with the signing of an agreement to permit construction of roads and sewers on Indian land.

Construction of the roads and sewers between Trunk Road and Cowichan River is expected to begin with six to eight

Mayor Jim Quaife and the city administrator were given authority to sign the agree-ment which Quaife described as "a very historic event." Quaife said, "To my knowlwith an Indian band council for the use of Indian lands." The agreement, which gives the city the right to build roads and sewers on private Indian land includes land already developed along Trunk Road and the Trans-Canada Highway, as well as land south of Trunk Road.

Approval for a $4.5 million shopping centre has already been given for the develop-ment area.

It was also announced Wednesday that the federal government had approved 5382,800 winter capital proj-ects fund loan for construction of roads and sewers in the area over a five-year period.

It may have felt like a golf shot to Frank Mahovlich, but to more than 17,100 Montreal Forum fans it might have been the Stanley Cup's final goal.

The Big M's 500th career goal on a controversial call early in the third-period not only nailed down a 3-2 Mon-treal Canadiens victory over Vancouver Canucks and their 16th Prince of Wales Trophy, for topping the division standings, it vaulted the 35-year-old winger into a select circle.

"It was like a shank wedge," Mahovlich recalled later in the Montreal dressing room of his 36th goal of the season. "I have been doing that so much lately."

The Canucks claimed the play was offside at the Van-couver blueline before Henri Richard centred to his teamcelyn Guevremont moved to cover Mahovlich but the puck skittered off the heel of the Montreal player's stick and slid slowly into the goal be-Mahovlich became only the fifth player in National Hockey League history to score 500 career goals. The all-time leader, Gordie Howe, finished his Detroit Red Wing career with 786 in 25 seasons.

Bobby Hull had 604 with Chicago Black Hawks before jumping to the rival World Hockey Association this year. Maurice (The Rocket) Richard scored 544 and Jean Beliveau had 507—both with Montreal Canadiens.

When Will a Black Man Manage In the Majors?

It's now 25 years since Jackie Robinson broke the color bar in the major leagues and the black man in sports has done pretty well since then.

Still, some major links in the success chain are missing. First — there isn't a major league manager of black ex-

Second - there isn't a hockey player worth his snuff to make it to the National Hockey League: Third—no golfer of that other color has ever made it to

There was an excellent article in the New York Times a week ago on the subject of who might be the first Negro to manage, in the majors, and many names were mentioned.

Foremost was that of Frank Robinson who has managed for the past four out of five seasons in Puerto Rico.

it is said that Robinson would like the chance but he isn't making it a covered. If it covered he will account it. We make the chance has a supplementation.

making it a crusade. If it comes, he will accept it. "I want to play two more years," he has said . . . "but I would like to become a big-league manager, and if the right opportunity came along I'd probably step down as a player.

When Robinson was sold to California it was suggested then that he was being hired with the manager's job in mind. Not so, says Harry Dalton, general manager of the Angels. Robinson was hired as a player only. And there, that matter rests for the time being.

Howard and Wills in Line

It may not be generally known, but Elston Howard almost became the first black manager a couple of years back. But Washington Senators opted instead for Ted Williams. Since then the club has moved to Texas.

When Seattle was in the American League it had been rumored that Bill White was in line for the manager's job, but he liked his broadcasting better and decided not to try for it. Jackie Robinson, too, might have made it a double if he had wished. When his active career ended in 1958, he was offered the position of field manager at Montreal. But he clined, and he certainly had all the qualities, the knowledge, and had been through the mill like no other Negro who

The former Dodger shortstop Maury Wills has openly stated that his personal goal in life is to manage in the majors. After all, he was captain of the Dodgers and that's almost next to the boss himself. When Maury took an announcer's job with NBC this year instead of a playing and coaching position in Japan, he had an escape clause written into his contract whereby if he received a chance to manage, he could accept it.

If for Wills it is more of an open campaign than by Robinson, Wills himself doesn't hedge.

The two best candidates are Frank Robinson and myself," he said recently. "I can't see anyone else. But if we are passed over, it'll be another 10 years before someone else

No 'Tokenism' for Doby

Larry Doby, the former batting great, is another prime candidate. He is teaching youngsters to hit at Montreal. He is contributing to the game. He is showing that he can instruct. He is getting the respect of team players. Sure Doby is anxious. But as he has said, it has to be on merit, nothing else.

'It will happen in the next year or two," he predicted, "because now we have qualified people who took the trouble to prepare, If it's tokenism, we're not interested."

There's the stor ytoo, that when the Yankees were up for sale last-year, one deal had it that Willie Mays was to be a part of any action and would be the manager. It didn't pan out, and Mays now is with the Mets. So maybe his opportunity is gone. So whither bound, these greats of the Negro race. Who will be the first? Or rather, perhaps, who will make the first historic move and open the door for a Negro to another all-

The big problem is that nobody really wants to be another Branch Rickey. He was the man who gave Robinson his start. Because this time the onus will be just as great. A wrong move could be disastrous.

And as for Negro hockey players and the Masters, those are different problems, and for other days.

With the world wide shortage of quality woollens, the prices of pure wool are rising daily. The availability of fine quality wool is also beginning to constitute a problem.

CONSUMER'S REPORT

In view of the floating dollar and the variation in the British pound, the wool market is changing very rapidly. At this point we can guarantee a rise in the cost of all woollens as the months progress.

We, at British Importers, are very fortunate inasmuch as we took a position many months ago with our wool suppliers, and are able to pass along an excellent selection of fine quality suits, sport jackets and slacks in top quality imported woollens at the most reasonable prices possible.

While the outlook price-wise is rather bleak, we will continue to do our utmost to provide the finest quality clothing at the best dollar value in the future.

increases in North Atlantic air fares scheduled for mid-April

Atlantic air fares effective April 15. However, E. W. Ogden, regional passenger sales manager for CP Air, said the increases were computed for Montreal-Europe fares in United States dollars and didn't take into account that the U.S. dollar is worth $1.01 Canadian at the current IATA exchange rate.

"This means that the Montreal gateway fare, in Canadian dollars, will increase only about five per cent, not six,

He said that for many Canadians the increase will be even less, because the increase applies only to the trans-Atlantic part of total fares, computed from Montreal. Since fares to Europe are computed by adding on the fare from the originating point in Canada to Montreal to the basic Montreal-Europe price, the percentage increase in total fares will be less the further west a traveller starts from OTTAWA — The Liberal government is in favor of increasing the number of seats in the House of Commons from 264-to 298 to protect the proportional representation of provinces which won't benefit from current redistribution plans.

Government House Leader Allan MacEachen reported in the Commons Wednesday, however, that he hasn't got the necessary agreement from opposition parties so far to "make a solid move" in this direction.

In the absence of an all-party concensus, MacEachen said, it is possible that legislation can be introduced to ensure the next election can be fought according to existing riding boundaries, pending measures to ensure that provinces without fast-growing populations are not penalized by redistri-

OTTAWA (CP) — Conserva-tive Leader Robert Stanfield needled the New Democratic Party Wednesday and ended up trying to deflect darts

It was one of those remarks the Conservative leader apparently couldn't resist.

Ed Broadbent (NDP Oshawa — Whitby) had com-plained that the NDP is being short-changed in the daily question period with the Conservatives getting far more recognition from the Speaker.

Stanfield intervened to say that it must be difficult for the Speaker to determine when the NDP is in fact an opposition party — a reference to NDP support for the minority Liberal government.

The Conservative leader his party will support the Liberal corporate tax measures and NDP Leader David Lewis pounced on that. The NDP opposes these measures.

"When it came to corporate tax, the leader of the Opposi-tion was in the finance minister's bed with such alacrity

For good measure, Lewis threw in another one.

He told Speaker Lucien Lamoureux that when it comes to making decisions, "the dif-ference between you and the Leader of the Opposition (Stanfield) is that you do

Clock Saves Grits

OTTAWA (CP) - The clock saved the Liberals Wednesday from what shaped up as antee defeat on the contentious issue of Polymer Corp. Ltd.

The close call came shortly after Prime Minister Trudeau told the Commons that a vot-ing defeat administered in committee Tuesday by a com-bination of Conservatives and New Democratic Party MPs would not invalidate the government's sale of Polymer to the Canada Development

Trudeau noted this was only his opinion. Conservatives have suggested that the committee defeat, on an item which would have ended Polymer's status as a Crown agency, will force invalidation added that the sale was prop-erly made last summer under the Canada Development Corp. Act which had been approved by a majority vote of the Commons.

Conservatives and NDP ground on Polymer, an oddity among Crown corporations because it has been a consistent money-maker. They contend that sale to the CDC, which eventually will sell shares publicly, means the benefits Polymer has re-turned to all Canadians in the past soon will be going only to those able to buy CDC shares.

CLOCK RAN OUT

In the miscellaneous estimates committee Wednes-day, the same place they lost the earlier vote, the Liberals ran out the clock on a Conservative-NDP move to have the auditor-general's department produce the audited fi-nancial statement of Polymer

Saanich Tax Appeals Won

Saanich property owners who appealed their 1972 assessments last month won 38 per cent of the 53 cases heard by the court of revision.

Of the total number, 28 appeals related to valuation and 11 to drainage problems or flooding; three owners said taxes were too high and two questioned the interpretation of assessment legislation.

Nine property owners complained about the appearance of neighboring properties, two of which remain in "deplorable condition," municipal assessor William Craven said.

One of these was Myles J. Barron, 1435 Courtland, complaining of the property of L. S. McNutt facing Courtland Road, where a quantity of sawdust and other materials is stored. The other was Eric Harris, 911 Leslie, objecting to the state of C. F. Leonard's property at 3711 Saanich, where he bases a roof gutter manufacturing business.

"The owners of the offending properties have already been prosecuted by the Corporation with little success." Craven said. There had been "token" efforts to improve the situations, he said

Craven said two appeals were withdrawn before the court dealt with them and of the remaining 20, 18 were granted nominal reductions. Two appellants won their cases.

Craven believed complaints in six cases of poor drainage were legitimate. They involved faulty reconstruction of ditches on Kent following installation of sanitary sewers; poor road surface and drainage on Regina; severe road flooding affecting access to property on Killarney, poor road and drainage allowing greenhouse flooding on Snowdrop. In one case the municipal drainage system was at a higher elevation

Cancels HQ Plan

VANCOUVER (CP).— The B.C. Telephone Co. announced Wednesday it has cancelled plans for a 37-storey headquarters building which would have been part of the Pacific

The new B.C. Tel building was to have been the largest of three office towers occupy-ing downtown Block 42,

The company said negotia-tions were terminated when Pacific Centre found it necessary to "make changes in the original design proposal "for the $25 million project."

The changes "would have reduced the amount of public space at the main plaza level of the telephone tower" and were unacceptable to B.C.

HOUR'S WORK brought in 150 pounds of eula-chons for Delta fisherman Harold Beck during last spring's Fraser River run.

Tiny Eulachon Is Big in Flavor

In British Columbia the eu-lachon, a small delicate fish supports one of the oldest fisheries in the province.

In the spring, about mid-April, it sweeps into the coastal rivers to spawn. The run is accompanied by hordes of screaming seaguils and amatum fisherment intent on disc teur fishermen intent on dipping up a few good meals. These fish are very rich in oil. When freshly caught and cooked, they are unsurpassed

Their name eulachon (prodians have always placed a high value on them as a source of food, cooking oil, and light. When dried and fitted with a wick, the eulachon burns for a considerable time and gives off a light compara-ble to that of a candle, hence its other name, "candlefish."

The present-day commer-cial fishery is limited to the Fraser River where eulachons are taken with drifting gill nets. The catch is sold fresh smelt caught in B.C. waters is the surf smelt. Unlike the eulachon, it spawns on the sandy beaches rather than up the rivers. The tide that swirls in over the long, sun-warmed flats of Van-couver Island and other beaches in the Lower Mainland brings them in silvery hundreds during the summer

The smelt is a prime table delicacy. It gets its name from the Anglo-Saxon Smooth, silvery and shining on the outside, it displays a pearly white flesh when cooked.

At time of catch, this fish has a pleasant aroma which has been likened to freshly ers, and dew-wet ferns. Its flesh has a delicate, almost sweet flavor. Both aroma and flavor are said to come from a volatile oil in the flesh which evaporates when the fish are stored for any length of time, or when they are frozen. Nevertheless, frozen smelt are a wholesome and popular product and provide abundant protein at moderate cost at some local fish mar-

Working Alcoholic Has Ally in Boss

By PAT MURPHY

The cost to industry and business of al-coholism is incalculable. Like other statistics it emerges from speculation based on estimates and imprecise formulae.

Perhaps more than in other areas of B.C.'s alcoholic life, industry is inclined to put the question under the carpet.

Louis Presnall, industrial consultant for the U.S. National Council on Alcoholism and keynote speaker at a drug-alcohol industry probe held in Vancouver in 1971, spoke of the "mystique" of industrial alcoholism.

The alcoholic on the job has an ally in his boss when it comes to covering up and perpetuating his drunkenness, Presnall said. And firms develop elaborate subterfuges to explain why they have taken no action to curb alcoholism on the job.

"Employers have an alibi structure just as alcoholics do," Presnall said: "They have a rationale or set of excuses to explain why they don't deal with alcoholism as an illness and their behavior is just as irrational as that of alcoholics. "For instance if your stereotype of an al-coholic is a Skid Road bum, then you can say there are no Skid Road bums on my payroll, therefore there are no alcoholics on my about alcoholism on the job here. This mystique expresses itself, in most companies in the form of an unwritten policy, according to Presnall it is:

1.) That alcoholism is a moral problem.

2.) That a person who has alcoholism is usually an unemployable derelict and, since the company gets rid of such employees, there cannot be many alcoholics on the payroll If such a policy was written, says Pres-nall, it would be: "Our company will pay an economic premium for the concealment of al-coholism. When the alcoholism can no longer be concealed, the employee will be fired.".

With this unwritten practice, says Presnall, it is no wonder that an alcoholic, particularly an executive, will go to almost any length to avoid exposure.

The usual figure given as the cost of alcoholism to business and industry in Canada is $400 million. This obviously is derived from the somewhat better documented U.S. figure of $4 billion. One-tenth the population, one-tenth the cost. Another figure, also un-documented, gives the cost of alcoholism to business and industry in B.C. as $84 million a year.

Miss Cathie Perkins, director of the Victoria-Vancouver Island branch of the al-coholism foundation, says there are more than 15,000 industrial alcoholics in B.C. causing very heavy financial loss to business and with personnel managers of companies and institutions on Vancouver Island in an effort to interest them in an alcoholism control plan. The response was minimal.

One reason industry is not prepared to "make an issue of it" is that alcoholism is often present at the executive level — some of the people who make the decisions start the day and end it with alcohol. Even in Victhe long lunch hour is an institution.

Alcoholism Foundation publication written by A. J. Vogel, points out that the executive who is stagger-drunk, abusive or violent is the exception

In the lower echelons the cost of intoxication, partial or otherwise, is more evident and no less expensive. There are the obvious problems of absenteeism, reduced efficiency because of hangovers, impaired people in charge of machinery, a danger to themselves

What does a company do in the face of a problem growing more serious in B.C.?

Companies which do have a policy, and that includes B.C. Telephone, Cominco, and Canadian National Railways, provincially, have found that it pays not only in terms of profits and the salvaging of valuable employees who otherwise would be lost to the organization, but in human values and

"When a machine fails the first thought is to repair it not scrap it. The failure of a man deserves no less concern no matter whether he is a drug addict or an alcoholic," says A. Huntington, chief executive of Service

Packing Co., Vancouver. A small but well-documented body of literature has developed on just how alcoholism should be handled in a company.

A six-way policy has proven, with variations, to be the most effective. In brief:

1) Alcoholism or problem drinking is an illness and should be treated as such by the

2) There must be written company policy as a guide to treatment afforded each alco-holic employee. The union must be made aware of the company's position and actions 3) The decision to seek diagnosis and accept treatment is the employee's respons bility. Continued refusal to seek treatment will not be tolerated.

4) It is in the best interests of the employee and company alike that alcoholism be diagnosed and treated at once.

5) The company's concern for individual drinking practices begins only when they result in unsatisfactory job performances. There must be consultation between company and union.

6) Confidential handling of diagnosis and treatment of alcoholism is essential.

Presenting Yardley Simplicité.

What is it?

A revolutionary new cosmetic . and skin treatment discovery that combines NATURAL SOURCE PROTEINS in pure gels, to let you care for your skin in Nature's way, quickly, simply and without "Goo".

What does it do?

As your skin matures, it is not capable of reproducing enough moisture for the face and neck areas to offset the constant drying effects of the Canadian climate. Simplicité helps maintain the moisture level dehydrated by the weather and restores the natural softening and healthful oils, but without using heavy grease, or "goo".

How does it work?

Chemical advances let Simplicité combine Natural Source Proteins, emollients, humectants, moisturizing agents, (and some other secrets) in super-thin, thermoactive, high surface-tension, translucent gels. (Sound complicated?) Simply, it means that chemical elements the skin will absorb to clean itself, nourish itself, and help keep its proper moisture/ chemistry balance have been formulated in very pure transparent gels. Smoothed onto the face and neck, these elements are taken into the skin's surface in nature's proportion to restore the proper balance of chemical elements and moisture. But the gel is so thin and translucent that after application, you can't see it, and you can't feel it. (No oily residue, no grease, no stickiness, no discolouring cream...no "goo"!)

How do you use it?

START CLEAN with Simplicité Gel Cleanser...Smooth it on with finger tips. Wait one minute. Wipe if off. It makes your skin come clean, and alive, but not "goo-ey".

STAY LOVELY while you treat your skin, with Simplicité Night Cream Gel... Finger tip it on smoothly in a thin application. That's all! It's not oily, not sticky, not tacky. You can't see it, you can't feel it. Yet, all night it will continue to nourish and moisturize your skin.

GET FRESH. Start the day with Simplicité Toning Gel...Finger tip it on, feel it tingle as the nerves call for fresh reserves into the tiny capillaries, re-invigorating and freshening the skin just below the surface.

KEEP YOUR SKIN ALIVE with Simplicité Moisture Gel. Touch it on smoothly with gentle strokes. It will seem to disappear. (Note how smoothly cosmetics apply over it. No smearing or caking.)

about you. New firm formula lipsticks slide colour onto your lips smoothly, evenly. Shine and shimmer for hours longer.

Choose from a glowing array of deep and petal-soft Simplicité colours, that stay moist.

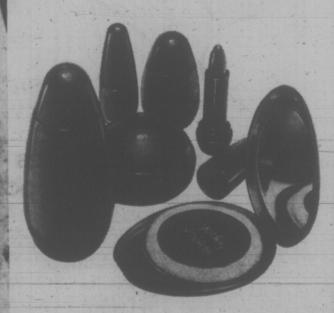

For the eyes...things are looking up! Drop your eyes shy and soft with Simplicité Powder Eye Shadow. Draw a fine line with Simplicité Cake. Eyeliner. Make lashes look 3 lush, longer with light-as-afeather Simplicité Brush-on Mascara.

Put your best face forward. Simplicité Foundation Gel and Pressed Powder smooth out and hide tiny wrinkles and flaws so subtly; you won't believe it. Leave your face with a fresh, translucent sheen.

For cheeks that don't blush as easily as they did once. Simplicité Gel Rouge. A completely new idea for putting the glow back in your cheeks. Your skin takes on a more youthful healthy look that looks entirely natural...(it almost is entirely natural).

Count on your fingers to add the finishing touch. Newly formulated Simplicité Nail Polish flows on in colours to match your lips and stays beautiful far longer, in rich subtle shades to give your fingers the look of elegance.

30 May Answer Roll At Reunion

It will be 57 years ago Saturday that thousands of Victorians lined downtown streets as the locally-recruited 67th Battalion Western Scots, marched in full battledress off to the

Lt.-Col. Lorne Ross led the 2,000-strong unit of the Fourth Canadian Infantry Division, as they marched from their Willows training camp to the CPR dock, there to embark on three specially chartered steamers for Vancouver on their first leg of their overseas journey.

Hundreds of relatives and friends were at dockside to say goodbye to the men, some of whom would never return, others only after Armistice had been signed.

Saturday, just as they have every years since the war ended, those that remain of the old battalion will hold a re-union. This one will be at 7 p.m. in the Dominion Hotel.

Time and war wounds have taken their toll. Only about 30, all in their late 70s or 80s, are expected to answer roll

One of them will be noted historian and author, George Nicholson, 86, of 950 Rockland.

He recalls how only 400 of his unit came marching home, the others lost or wounded on the battlefield.

The 67th served as a pioneer battalion for the first part of the war, putting up barbed wire in No-Man's Land, installing gun emplacements, working alongside army engineers.

Nicholson reports their last session under fire as a hometown unit was at the Battle of Vimy Ridge.

Shortly afterwards, pioneer battalions were phased out. Half of the 67th, with Nicholson (then a major) joined the 54th Kootenay Battalion while the remainder, under the command of Major Stan Okell of Victoria transferred to the 102nd Vancouver Island Battalion, which had been formed in Cour-

They were to fight as infantry until the war ended. Okell will be chairman for Saturday's reunion.

Coming the farthest for the event is Stan Lovelock of San Leandro, Calif. Lovelock has been on hand for roll call each year since he and his buddies came back in 1919.

If you're in the market for a car loan, get it from the Royal Bank...

BEAUTIFUL BRITISH COLUMBIA

and we'll pay $2500 toward your plates!

It's very simple. We have $25.00 in crisp new bills to put in your hand the moment we put through a Termplan Personal Loan for you, for $1,000 or more of new money before June 29th.

No catches, no strings. No change in our interest rate. Plus: life insurance at no extra cost. You don't even have to be a Royal Bank customer.

It's a good offer-so good that you may wonder what's in it for us. Well, personal lending is a very important part of our business. We know that there are many people in the market for money this spring, and we want to increase our share of the business. So, we're offering you the best incentive we know of-the thing we know best-money. We haven't changed our interest rates, and there are no hidden charges. We hope to make the money back from the increase in volume. And you, the borrower, can reap the benefit now, with the assurance that the Royal Bank will never knowingly let you get in over your head.

It doesn't matter whether you bank with us or not, and the only account you'll need to open is a chequing account for the loan repayments. This offer applies to anybody who can qualify for a loan. Just talk to your local Royal Bank manager before June 29.

Remember-you'll be in a better position to make the best deal if you know you've got the money. So arrange your loan before you shop for the car.

We have all the services you'll ever need. While you're thinking about borrowing, it makes a lot of sense to think about our other services too. Savings, for example. Maybe you'd like to set up a savings programme now that will give you cash in hand next time you want to buy something big.

Personal Chequing—to keep your bill-paying simple, and to give you a permayou've paid it to. It can help you stay organized.

Chargex—to save you carrying a lot of cash, and to let you buy the things you need now. Pay in full when your monthly statement arrives, or pay in easy instal-

The choice is yours. These are just a few of our helpful services. Our tellers and managers will be happy to tell you nore—and to give you a free copy of our 40-pagemoney management at the book. It's called Datsun has won more rally championships than any other car in Canada. Against the best competitors. Under the worst conditions.

So what? Maybe all you really need is a car that behaves sensibly and economically in traffic or on the freeway.

So this: the things that have helped us win rallies are standard equipment on the Datsuns you'll find in your dealer's showroom.

Front disc brakes, overhead cam power, independent rear suspension and tough unit body construction add up to a car that will survive wherever you drive. And because they're all yours at no extra cost, they also add up to a lot more car for your dollar:

Heroin 'High' Spot Located Medical School have located the part of the brain to which heroin and other oplates attach themselves to make the person feel "high," or exhilerated. This discovery suggests that a way will be found of helping addicts to recover quickly from their life-

The work is being done by Dr. Solomon H. Snyder and graduate student Candace B. Pert. It will be interesting to see how this work develops.

YOUR HEALTH: Dr. Walter Alvarez

In some fine hospitals today they have a group of doctors and laymen who review all the surgery being done, to make sure it was necessary. If one surgeon is particularly careless about removing too many normal appendices or galibladders, his operating privileges will be denied him.

Long years ago, two very able surgeons, friends of mine, look very ill with abdominal pain. I knew from the woman's history that she was having unusually severe attacks of migraine such as are sometimes accompanied with severe abdominal pain and in each spell, prostration in bed. I had seen her come out of such spells before, without much, if any, treatment, but the surgeons said, "If we do not operate and the woman dies in a spell, we will be sued."

I kept asking the woman what tragedy had come into her life, because I have seen these terrible crises of abdominal migraine come with psychic problems, but always she told me that there was no psychic cause. A year later — after two abdominal operations which showed "nothing wrong"—she came to me just to clearher conscience because she had lied to me. She confessed that she married a man who kept having brief spells of mild insanity which terribly distressed her, and caused a her crisis of pain. When he died, she was well.

Dedication Guards Park, Group Told

Beacon Hill Park Associa-tion was urged by retiring president Jim Beaubien to work towards dedication of the park in the coming year at the group's annual meeting Wednesday.

Park dedication would put an end to encroachment on park territory for purposes other than providing green spaces for public use, Beaubien said. bien said.

After that any changes to the park would have to have the approval of the provincial cabinet and possibly a public referendum as well, he added.

"This would effectively eliminate the situation of various measures being passed in council without public knowledge," Beaubien

New president of the 600-member organization is John Newberry. Newberry.

MORE INCOME FOR PENSIONERS?

OTTAWA (CP) - Recipients of Canada Pension Plan payments may be allowed more outside income before having their pensions reduced, Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde

Under present limits, a recipient has his pension reduced y 50 cents a year for each dollar of outside income between $960 and $1,600 a year and by $1 for each dollar above $1,600.

Lalonde said Monday he doubts that the provinces would agree to removing the limit completely, as suggested by the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, but the federal government probably could get agreement for "substantial increases" in the limit.

A Canadian Press story Monday ambiguously suggested that the limits concerned the universal old-age security pay-

If you ever got a ring in a box of Same song, second verse crackerjacks as a child, you know Some cars begin to rust t that it started out shiny, but soon tarnished—and turned your finger

A good ring, though, keeps its lustre indefinitely and wears well.

It's a bit like that with cars.

Welded strength

Any car, for example, is tight when it's new. But the bolts that hold ordinary cars together can begin to work loose after a few years, and start to squeak and groan.

The body of a Mercedes-Benz, on the other hand, is born in a shower of sparks; solidified by thousands of welds. When the odometer reaches 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if your Mercedes-Benz will ever rattle.

Quality begins to show with age.

Some cars begin to rust through after a few years.

But more than forty-four pounds of paint and primer are lavished on every Mercedes-Benz at the factory. Even the insides of the hubcaps are Result: like a good ring, a Mercedes-Benz keeps its lustre.

Lines do not betray age

Cars that boasted "futuristic" styling when they were new only a short time ago, look dated now. But a Mercedes-Benz is endowed with classic lines, free of faddish touches, so that it will remain handsome for years to come

Exceptional engineering features Best of all, every used Mercedes-Benz bristles with performance and safety features that simply do not exist on domestic sedans—even the newest models to roll off the assembly line. All-independent suspension-for leech-like roadability. Taut, recirculating-ball-type steering—for precise control.

Trudeau Meeting Angers Pollen

Victoria Mayor Peter Pollen and 14 other Canadian mayors met Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau this week to try to have some municipal represenatation on crucial federal Pollen the results were disasrous.

Pollen, a member of the executive of the Canadian Fed-eration of Mayors and Munici-palities along with Mayor Art Philips of Vancouver (who did not attend the meeting), saidabout Trudeau's response to a request for a municipal voice in broadcasting, telephone and transport licence grant-

Pollen and the rest of the executive told Trudeau that since the Canadian Radio-Television Commission and Canadian Transport Commission made decisions that close-ly affected towns and cities, there should be some municipal representation.

Trudeau's "arrogant and misleading reply," Pollen said, was to ask whether the mayors also wanted repre-sentation on the Supreme Court of Canad — "because the CRTC is also a judicial

"If this is the case," Pollen said, "I would like the prime minister to tell us who represents the Canadian public fore this august tribunal?"

"If the CRTC is indeed a judicial body, then justice should be seen to be done. When cablevision companies of B.C. Telephone (which is regulated by the CRTC) apply for rate increases, the munici-palities must be seen to be

Pollen said the 17 members of the Canadian Transport of the Canadian Transport Commission, which regulates tele-phones and railways among palities, without any represenation from municipalities.

The mayors met Trudeau and the cabinet for two hours on Monday. "It was like sup-plicants coming before the king," Pollen commented.

Pollen says he has written Trudeau telling him what he thinks of the meeting and of thinks of the meeting and of Trudeau's statement that the CRTC and the CRTC are judicial bodies. A meeting of the mayors' executive, set for June, will certainly be discussing the matter further. cussing the matter further, Pollen said.

Some Helpful Hints On Balcony Plantings

Balcony gardeners don't like to feel their tubbed plants are outgrowing their usefulness, yet this may very well happen after five or six years. Only the Bonsai method of culture enables tree and shrub plant forms to occupy the same container for 100 years or more.

Even some tropical plams can be kept growing in restricting tubs by slicing off roots at each potting. But most of our hardy shrubs do not respond favorably to such treatment except at the hands of an expert in root pruning. When tubbed plants need replacement as shown by yellowing foliage in evergreen kinds, or poor leaves and flowers in the deciduous, the apartment dweller should begin to think of gardening friends at ground level.

Surely among them will be someone to give loving care to the tub-weary shrub for a year and then plant it in a suitable place to grow naturally.

The alternative in some cases might be presenting the plant to the gardener in charge of the apartment gardens. He just might be able to use it as a replacement in the grounds if he knows whether it can be reconditioned, and

If the tree or shrub originally cost $2.50 or $3 you have surely had 50 cents worth of enjoyment from it each year; even at double the price you will already have had your

I know that living things cannot be truly estimated dollar-wise, yet this is often the value retained in the mind of a purchases..."I paid five dollars for that!"

This is the month to consider replacements of permanent balcony plants, the month of April is not likely to be either too warm or too windy and dry, whereas May can be all three. Make the necessary changes now to take advantage of weeks of good growing weather.

You may have thought of changing the present planting scheme. Perhaps clematis on wood and wire supports; or a weeping birch; bamboos; or a native arbutus. All in tubs, of

If you haven't given a thought to even one planter of green salad plants, consider it now. Though you may not be addicted to salads, many of the ingredients are used in sandwiches, casseroles and cold plates to add that vital freshness which stimulates the appetite.

Small red or yellow tomatoes, chives, parsley, red spinach beet are only a few of the good things to eat which you can grow as ornamental plants in a balcony tub.

Only paraley of this list can be bought. Nor can fresh herbs be bought. Consider these things for your own good eating when making changes in your balcony plantings this

INFLATION CHOSEN

OTTAWA — Faced with a risk of rising unemployment or inflation, Finance Minister John Turner told the House Wednesday he was prepared to run the risk of inflation at -

A concern that excessive demand was creating too much inflation in the Canadian economy was the theme running through the report of the Governor of the Bank of Canada tabled in the Commons Tuesday.

Stanfield noted the warnings, sounded in the central bank's annual report. He inquired if it was because of these cautionary notes from the Bank of Canada that the finance minister introduced a budget last month that was less expansionary than the budget introduced in May, 1972.

Turner said he based his budget on all the "reasonable advice" he could get throughout the country. He took into account the views of the governor of the central bank. He said that had he taken the advice of the financial critics of the official opposition his defic would have been doubled this year.

Full Price Controls For Oil, Gas in B.C.

By BRIAN BUTTERS Times Staff

Legislation introduced today by the NDP government will give a proposed B.C. Energy Commission power to regulate prices of all petroleum and natural gas products at the wholesale and retail

Attorney - General Alex Macdonald brought in three pieces of legislation, including a bill to create the B.C. Energy Commission, which will replace

The commission will have up to seven members, he said, and will have "over-all responsibility for the management and use of energy resources in

Measures to protect and increase national control in key areas of computer communications, just as broadcasting undertakings now must be Canadian-owned.

- Loosening of present pro hibitions against connection-between telephone systems of equipment not approved by the telephone companies. Example: Message-recording devices, often office answering Closer monitoring of rates and operations of com-munications carriers. Exam-ple: Continuous watch on telephone companies' finances.

-Extension to new fields of Canadian-content regulations for broadcasters. Example: Video cassettes sold comercially for playing on home television sets. Various measures to promote national unity and independence by strengthening east-west telecommunications links, offsetting a growing fendency toward north-south links that is said to encourage evevn more dominancy by U.S.-originated material.

The policy paper says that the proposals "are open at this stage to modification in he light of detailed discussion with the governments of the provinces and the industries concerned, and of the response they man engender from users of telecommunications services and the general It stresses what it calls the

BELUGA WHALE KILLING BANNED

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has banned killing of Beluga whales for sport, Environment Minister Jack Davis said today.

In a joint news release with Northern Affairs Minister Jean Chretien, Davis said the decision to ban the issuance of sport licences was made out of concern for the "so-called 'sports' aspect of this activity" and because of the hunting methods used.

Licences for sport hunting of beluga were first issued in 1965, and the highest catch was in 1968. No whales have be taken since 1969.

The MPP, who when not attending legislative sessions in Toronto works as a lawyer in Ottawa, says attempts by criminals elements to expand into the city are generally very subile. "By undercutting the opposition through sweet-heart deals with the unions they gradually take over the business in the city," said

He said their approach to unions is gradual but ending with violence if they refuse to go along with demands as has been the case in Ottawa.

"Surely to God we shouldn't have to wait until there are bombings in our city to convince the government the need for action," said Roy.

The MPP said it would be "absolute idiocy" on Premier Davis' part to initiate a royal commission inquiry into the construction industry at such

Books Pushed

BRUSSELS (CP) - Canada, proudly displaying 500 books in French and English, is using a big international exhibition here as the first stage in a major new effort to give its publishing industry a world market.

"This is a well-lit initial approach," observed one Canadian official as he surveyed his country's stand-bright with lively dust jackets and red maple leaf crests at the. fifth annual Brussels book

The Canadians have participated in the Brussels show before. But this year they have ambitious plans for following up on their display.

And they are shortly to unveil new book-promoting en-terprises in Paris and London. In Brussels, the Canadians plan to add a permanent sales outlet, for their books in English to that already operating for volumes in French, de-spite the traditional idea of the Belgian capital as mainly a market for books in French.

Though officially Frenchand Dutch-speaking, Brussels also is the hub of the European Common Market and nu-merous other international organizations. It has a fast-growing English-speaking population, which is influen-tial as well as affluent.

The Canadians have obtained room in a thriving English-language bookstore on the city's main street as a showcase for their publica-tions. This will remain active long after the 10-day fair closes March 26.

The shop will have a continuing stock of Canadian

Times Business Editor

The provincial department of trade and commerce is rather late getting into the field of assistance to secondary industry but now hopefully will be making up for lost time, deputy minister Leslie Hempsall told Yictoria bu-sinessmen Wednesday. He said the provincial gov-ernment decided in 1937 this province could survive best by developing natural re-sources and exporting them and it stopped assisting sec-ondary industry at that time.

Guys Get Even On Golf Course

KEN VENTURI

Times News Services

TORONTO — At last, men's lib has struck back. Irving Hennick, one of three Toronto residents who pur-chased the Pine Valley Golf Club site northwest of Toronto, said the course will be turned into an exclusive men's golf club.

But before the gals get up in arms, there's one small point — about two wood shots and a five iron away from Pine Valley is another course, the Toronto Ladies Golf Club.

No men are allowed except as special guests of the exclusive female membership. The pro at Toronto Ladies, incidentally, is Frank Mann. And that apparently is about as close to male chauvinism as the gals get. Meanwhile, back at Pine Valley, Henpick and his as-bling there is a market for a 250-member club charging monthly dues of $200 to $300.

"We're sure there is," Hennick said. "There are several clubs in the U.S., one in Chi-cago that has 300 members and 1,200 on the waiting list.

"What's happening in golf is that guys who can afford it are willing to pay for a club where they can go and play golf without women on the course.'

As an added incentive, Ken Venturi, U.S. Open champion in 1964 who has since been knocked off the pro tour be-cause of a circulatory problem in his hands, will serve as consulting professional.

tor in making the Reps tough to handle Saturday. Victoria, which regained the inter-city crown last season after a six-year Vancouver domination, will be at home for the final cup match, against UBC April 7.

Other Victoria Union players picked for the side by committee under chairman om Browne are wings Wes Thomas and Rick Rollins; centres Tim Cummings and Stil Barber; scrum-half Bruce Howe; standoff Gillie Greig; forwards Daye Docherty, Gudmund Gudmanseth, Gaither Zinkan, Rob Hindson, Hans deGoede, John Wen-man, Ken Wilkie and Larry Johnston, and reserves Mel Jones, Doug Pettman, Mich Eckhardt and Allen Foster. Rees will start at fullback.

Thomas and Wenman, who were sidelined by injuries two weeks ago, are the only new players selected to the side.

Wallace Faced With Bitter Choice

Long House Sessions Pose Problem for Oak Bay's Politician-Physician

By BRIAN BUTTERS

The current session of the B.C. legislature - which appears destined to continue for much longer than usual sessions—is driving a wedge through the double life of Scott Wallace, medical doctor

With the session just completing its eighth week, and with the pure prospect of a second session in the fall of this year, Wallace is faced with what he describes as a 'bitter'' choice.

It is a choice of either dropping out of politics, thereby abandoning his successful representation of Oak Bay constituents for the last four years, or dropping his hardearned 21 years' experience as a physician.

Wallace says he won't be making the final decision for some fime yet—perhaps a year or even two. But the tone that, at least, he is leaning toward medicine and away from politics.

His own arguments back up this opinion.

"I don't mind saying publicly that I'm not entirely comfortable in the political arena," he said, "whereas I feel completely at home in

"I have had problems in politics because I have had difficulty playing the political game according to the established rules. Whereas in medicine I function according to my conscience-do what my conscience dictates—I find it harder to function clearly in politics according to what my conscience tells me. There are different ground rules."

The Tory MLA points proudly to his 21 years of medical training and practice in Scotland, England, Ontario to an established practice in Oak Bay which Wallace has had to entrust to an associate for the duration of legislative session the last four years.

This is where the basic problem lies. Wallace says he can manage to keep his finger weeks, perhaps longer—only adds to Wallace's problem.

Farming a medical practice out to a colleague may be manageable once a year for a reasonably short length of time, but two sessions per year, adding up to a much in both medical and political pies as long as the session is not overly long.

With indications from NDP cabinet ministers that the session will continue into May-a full five weeks away-Wallace is facing the fact that attempting to continue to lead his double life would be "runneither purpose well."

The promised fall session—likely to last at least six greater number of weeks, is a different situation.

"It would appear that it is the intention of the govern-ment to create full-time politi-cians," Wallace said. "This is causing me to look ahead and face the fact that I'm going to have to choose between one or

"Really, all I've put into politics is time."

Wallace is asked how much of a factor the potential leadership of the Progressive Con-servative party would be on 'The leadership issue doesn't really enter into it for me," he said matter-of-factly.

"It's me as a person who is involved here; there's nothing to do with the leadership."

Even if Tory organizers came to him and said: 'Look buster, you're it', "I would still be faced with the same bitter choice.'

He says he's not getting "fed-up" with the fact that party leader Derril Warren does not have a seat in the house and that he and Hugh Curtis (PC-Saanich-and-the-Islands) are having to shoulder the load of representing Conservative policy on issues raised.

Teacher Job Prospects 'Rosy' As Recruiters Hit the Campus

By SUSAN RUTTAN Times Staff

Education students may find the job situation healthier this spring, as an increased number of school district recruiters are at the University of Victoria this week looking over the year's crop of teachers.

Recruiters from 38 school districts will be interviewing education students this week and next, compared with 20 school districts here last spring and 26 in 1971.

$1,000 in Taxation For House That Was

Legislation introduced today by the NDP government will give a proposed B.C. Energy Commission power to regulate prices of all petroleum and natural gas products at the wholesale and retail

Attorney - General Alex Macdonald brought in three pieces of legislation, including a bill to create the B.C. Energy Commission, which will replace the existing Public Utilities Commission.

The commission will have up to seven members, he said, and will have "over-all responsibility for the management and use of energy resources in

It will also be empowered to conduct a complete survey of the energy potential and re-quirements of the province at the request of the cabinet.

The government's Crown corporation, B.C. Hydro, will be under the jurisdiction of the Energy Commission. Complaints regarding Hydro service and rates may be ap-pealed by consumers to the commission for the first time, Macdonald said.

The attorney-general also said the government may see fit to give greater powers to the Energy Commission which would enable it to control export of petroleum and natural gas products out of the province. This could possibly be done through blocking production at the wellhead, he
